Description

The Latour family has been proprietors of a part of Romanée-Saint-Vivant since December 1898. "Les Quatre Journaux" is a magnificent plot of land situated at the South-West of Romanée Saint Vivant, a few meters from the Romanée-Conti vineyard. A "Journal" is an old Burgundian measurement corresponding to approximately 0.4 hectares (34,28 ares). Even though the Latours' initial purchase carried the entirety of the plot, half of it was sold some years later. Today Maison Louis Latour owns 0.8 hectares of Romanée-Saint-Vivant. It offers a marvelously aromatic wine, with a velvety texture which culminates in a persistent and powerful finish in the mouth. It is one of our greatest red wines.

Wine tasting

- TASTING NOTE Lots of bright fruit on the nose, cherry, black currant, very pure. Then shows sweet notes of oak, white pepper, and the aromatic is fresh, as it should be for a young wine. The mouth feel is also dominated by the red fruit, the soft and round tannins are supported by the acidity, the finish is long, the tannins are present. (This wine is still very young, taste almost like a barrel sample, will need a few years before being enjoyed at full potential). Tasted July 2011
- CELLARING POTENTIAL 25-35 years
- FOOD PAIRING Hare - duck and truffle parmentier - mature cheeses
- SERVING TEMPERATURE 16-17°
